THE PROBLEM

Why this module exists

- Payments arrive by cheque or transfer and are matched by hand
- Tenants cannot settle an invoice the moment they read it
- Receipting is a separate manual step after the money lands

Tenants pay by card with 3-D Secure through a hosted payment gateway, and the receipt, ledger entry and invoice status all update themselves. No card data ever touches the platform.

CAPABILITIES

What you get

Tenant experience — Pay now button on every invoice and statement — Card payments with 3-D Secure on a hosted payment page — Instant receipt by email and in the tenant portal — Part payments where your policy allows them	Finance experience — Payments post straight to the ledger against the right invoice — Real-time status in the staff payments register — Settlement and gateway reconciliation reporting — Failed and abandoned payments flagged for follow-up
Controls — Payment methods switched on or off centrally — No card data stored — hosted gateway only — Full audit trail on every transaction attempt — Funds settle directly to your airport's merchant account

Commercial terms — licence fee, add-on module fees, implementation and payment schedule — are issued on a formal quotation to the airport authority and are confirmed in the AERIS client portal once your organisation is verified.

FAQ

Questions we are usually asked

Whose merchant account is used?

Your own. Funds settle directly to the airport; Trident never holds tenant money.

Are card details stored?

Never. The tenant enters card details on the gateway's hosted page and the platform only ever sees the result.

What about tenants who do not pay by card?

Bank transfer and cash remain available and are recorded exactly the same way.
